

The Miller

Pity the poor Miller. Humble in life, and brought even lower by the comet's fall. He is an echo of a man - trapped in time, and suffering for the absence of his departed wife. End what remains of his life, and rest easy in the knowledge that his murder would be a kindness.

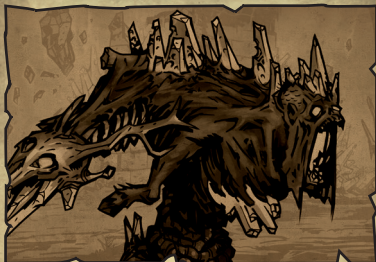

The Miller

ACTIONS / Round: 2

The Master Beckons: If there are no other Monsters in play, during his turn, instead of using a Skill, the Miller will summon a Frozen Farmhand in  and another one in  (moving himself in ). When they transform to Farmhand II, they have  at all times.

Thing from the Stars

Of all the hideous and contemptible forms life can take, there is none more grotesque than this lumbering assemblage of carcass and corpse.

Animated by an alien will, its tenuous, haphazard form is in a near-constant state of organic dissolution. This necrotic abomination cannot be allowed to wander the earth unopposed - destroy it!

Thing from the Stars

ACTIONS / Round: 2

Return to the Stars: Before its first action of each round, the Star Thing will use the 3 Return to the Stars skill as a free action. Among its effects, this skill will summon as many monsters as possible if the Monster Posture track is not full, including at least one Crystalline Aberration I.

The Sleeper

It lurked for untold eons at the edge of space, gazing covetously at our fragile earth. Called forth from the infinite gulfs of the void, it promises to unleash incalculable profanity on our unsuspecting planet, should it ever escape the temporal vacuum created upon its arrival. Strike it down again and again, but know that while it may sleep, it will never die.

The Sleeper

ACTIONS / Round: 2

Seeds of Despair: When the Focus Point/Aberrations' turn comes, roll 3  and place Focus Point tokens on the corresponding Areas on the board. If there is already one there, do not place one, instead flip the Focus Point onto its Aberration side.

If there is an Aberration when the the existing Focus Point is about to spawn, do not spawn it, just activate the Aberration instead. Each Aberration has different effects depending on its color.